Where Are We Headed Over the Next Few Years?

- Four-Sector Consensus Forecast Incorporates Different Economic Views, Including the FAC

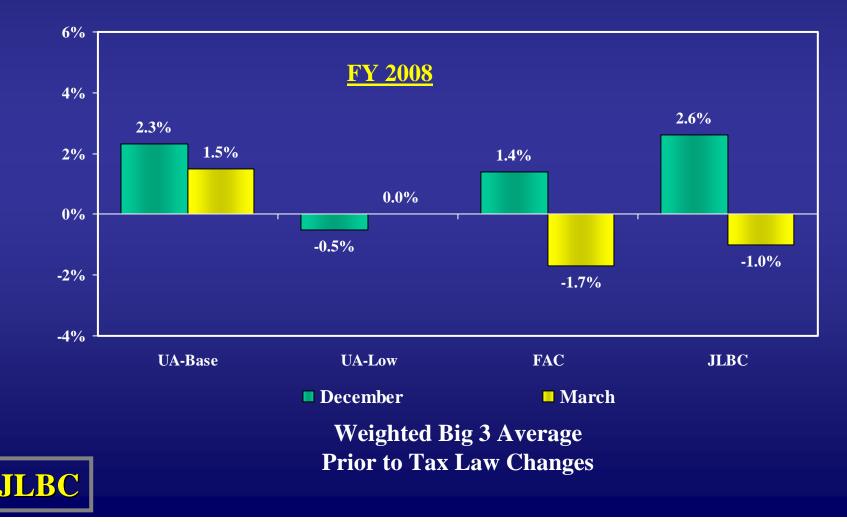

* Includes Big 3 categories of sales tax, individual income and corporate income taxes.

FY 2008

4-Sector Decreased from 1.5% to (0.3)% Revised Executive Forecast = 0.5%

4-Sector FY '08 Decline of (0.3)% Appears Too Optimistic
- Recommend Using JLBC's (1.0)% Decline

- February YTD collections (2.8)% (pre-tax cuts)
- March-June growth to reach 4-sector 4.5%
- March-June growth to reach JLBC Staff 2.8%

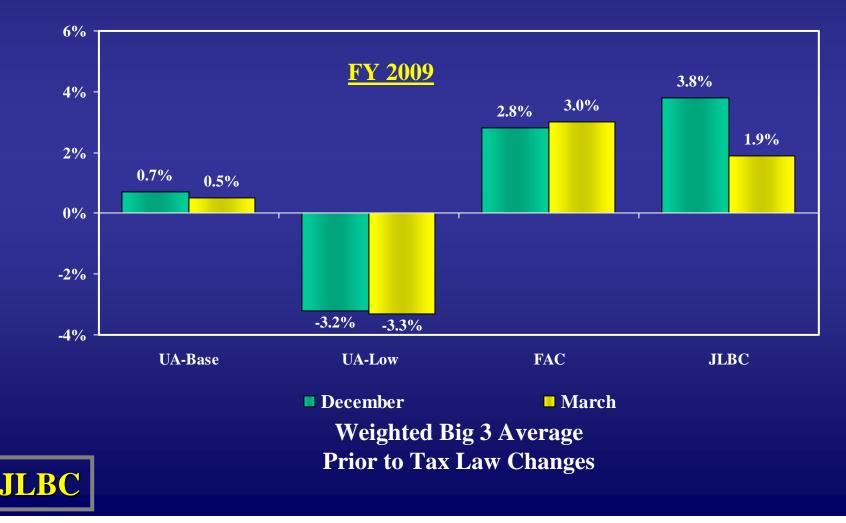

Is 2.8% Final Trimester Growth Too High?

- March-June '07 collections dropped (5)% compared to 1st 8 months of '07.
- As a result, easier to generate positive growth in March-June '08.
- But potential exists for another $100-$200 M revenue loss above latest estimate.

FY 2009

4-Sector Decreased from 1.0% to 0.5% Revised Executive Forecast = 4.4%

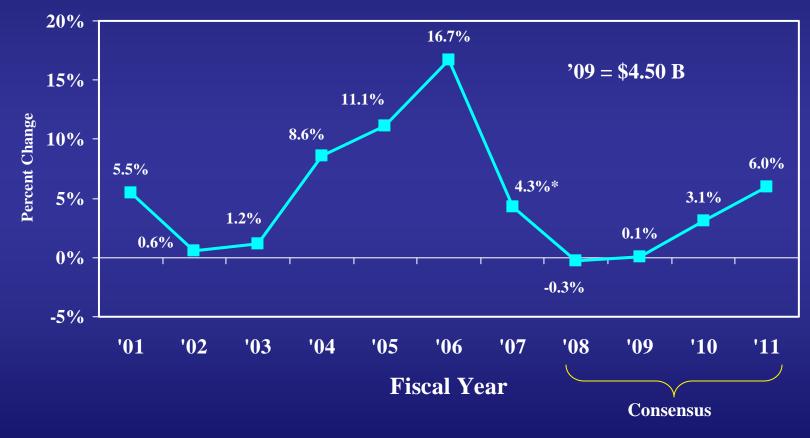

4-Sector '08-'09 Growth is 0.2% - If Use JLBC Staff for FY '08, FY '09 Growth Would Be 1.2%

Economic Outlook 2008 "A Year You'll Want to Forget"

Presented by: Elliott D. Pollack Presented for: Finance Advisory Committee March 6th, 2008

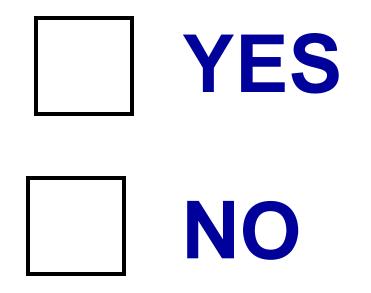

Where do we stand?

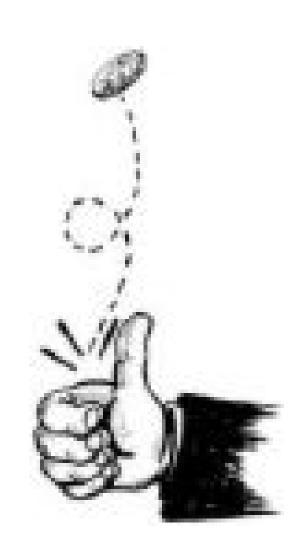

Will there be a recession in 2008?

Good chance of a recession

(almost a coin flip)

ODDS OF A RECESSION

Source: National Blue Chip Panel

February 08 consensus:	48.8%
January 08 consensus:	38.1%

December 07 consensus: 39.1%

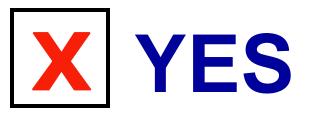

January 07 consensus: 25.4%

Survey questions are asked on the 5^{th} and 6^{th} of each month.

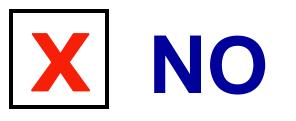

Economists' expectations for 2008 may be too lofty at the moment.

- Housing market will worsen.
- Credit crunch will spread to non-highly levered section.
- Consumers will cut back.
- Export growth slows significantly.
- Business expansion will stop.

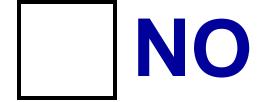

- Housing market will worsen.
- Credit crunch will not spread to the business sector to the same extent it spread to the residential sector.
- Consumer spending weak.
- Export growth continues to be strong.
- Business continues to spend.

Will there be a recession in 2008?

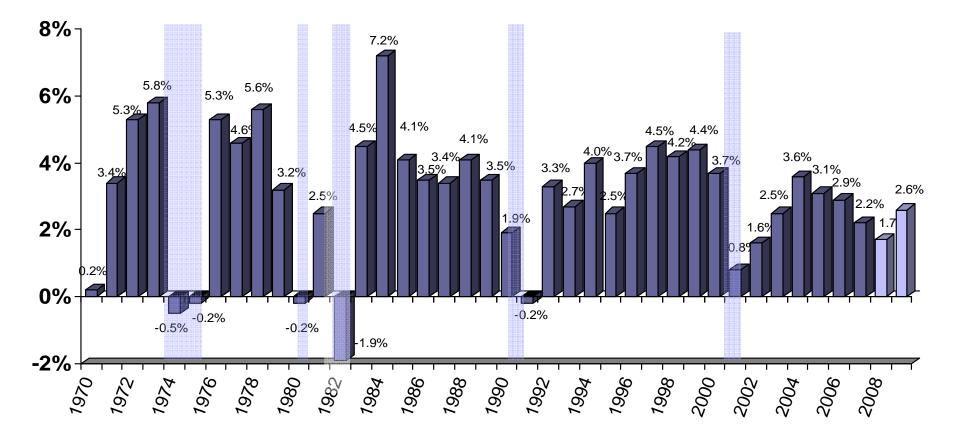

Either way, 2008 will not feel good!

Is a Recession Imminent?

Economic expansions do not die of old age.

They die from:

- 1. Structural imbalances
- 2. Fiscal and monetary policy errors

...Combined with unusual shocks

This Time

Excess supply of housing \rightarrow led to credit market problems.

What will happen to HH Net Worth?

In the 90s

Housing prices increased moderately, but stock market boomed.

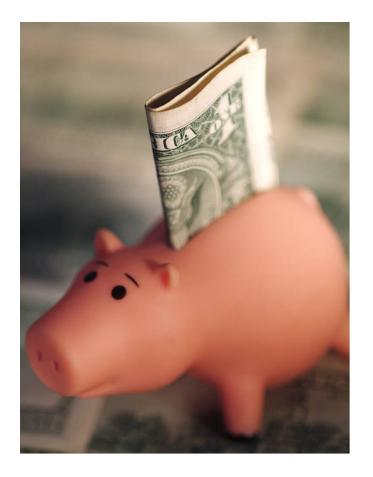

First half of 2000's

Stock market was doing poorly, but housing prices boomed.

Now

Declining housing prices AND mediocre results in the stock market.

Question: Does this mean the reverse of the wealth effect?

Conclusions...

Mortgage equity withdrawal will go negative.

- Ability to refinance continues to be more difficult due to the credit crunch and declining housing prices.
- Savings rates will be impacted as households have to restructure balance sheets (i.e. can no longer rely on their house or the stock market) and will save more, spend less.
- Negative wealth effect.

How long will this take?

Probably more than a year.

Therefore, not only will 2008 be weak, but it will feature:

- Continued weakness in housing market
- Declining housing prices
- Weakness in commercial construction starting in mid-08.
- Fiscal stimulus in Washington being offset by deficits at the State and Local level.
- Employment declining
- Weakness in real incomes

Thus...

Consumer spending, instead of being in the 3% range, will be flat.

- Corporations in great financial shape
- Exports booming

[•]Data through fourth quarter 2007. •NOTE: Series was revised in March 2004. Data prior to 1990 was not provided.

But...

While the rest of the world is less tied to us than in the past, it is still tied to us and our slowdown will affect them.

This means we will export less and businesses will spend less on plant and equipment.

This will be a slowdown in the economy....

...but the shape and duration are yet to be determined.

What This All Means

- State and local governments in Arizona are up against it (especially if they were spending temporary revenues on permanent programs).
- Downward pressure on prices (inflation not likely to be bad).
- Interest rates will go down from here.
- Fed will continue to stimulate economy.

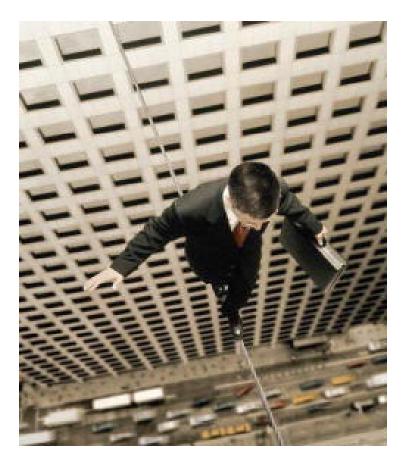

Credit Crunch

Banks and others significantly curtail their lending to all sectors.

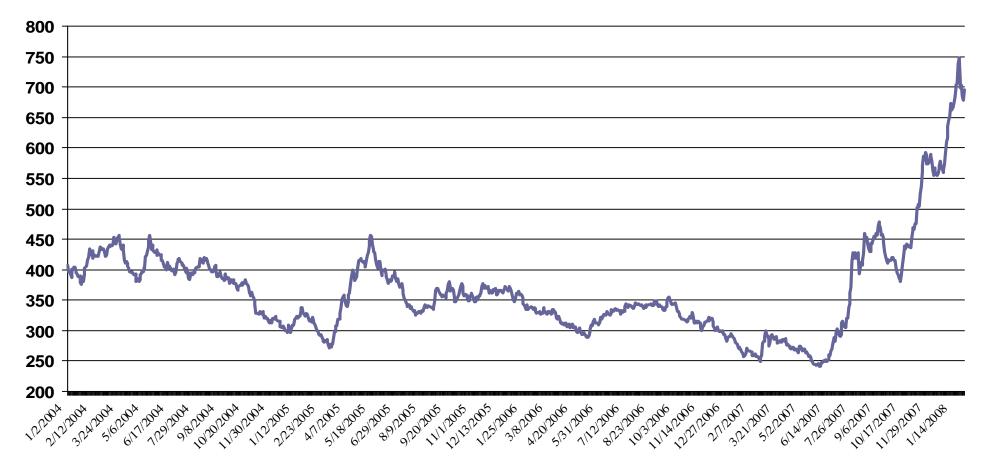

Market re-prices risk.

Elliott D. Pollack & Company

To Get a Full Blown Credit Crunch You Need

1. FEAR –

Of big losses on current & future loans.

2. UNCERTAINTY -

How big will the losses be? When will the market stabilize?

At what price will it stabilize?

The crunch is starting to spread to the general economy.

Characteristics of a Limited Credit Crunch

- Banks are still lending to consumers & businesses.
- Credit card agencies are still issuing credit.
- Mortgage lenders are still lending to qualified borrowers.

Actions of the Fed

What about election year stimulus package?

The Perfect Storm in the Housing Market?

What Happened:

- Falling prices
 - Fear
 - Tightening of credit
 - Less money to loan

Scheduled re-pricing of sub-prime loans pushes up delinquent and foreclosure rates, adding new supply that pushes down housing prices...

...which starts the process over again.

Danger Ahead – ARMS to Reset

$515 billion (2007) + $680 billion (2008)

The credit crunch ends when banks & other lenders see stability.

In the absence of destroying houses or stimulating demand, we have to just live through it...

... Until supply and demand are back in balance both nationally and locally.

Economic Indicators

JLBC - Monthly Fiscal Highlights

Recent Economic Indicators

NATIONAL

The Conference Board's U.S. Consumer Confidence Index posted a slight increase in December, totaling 88.6, or 1.5% above November levels. The slight increase was attributed to an increase in the expectations index. Despite this increase, however, year-over-year, the index fell (19.5)%

The U.S. Index of Leading Economic Indicators decreased by (0.2)% in December, marking the third consecutive month of reported declines. Six of the 10 components that make up the composite index decreased in December. The building permit component made the largest negative contribution, followed by average working hours in manufacturing.

U.S. semiconductor billings decreased (1.0)% in November (3month moving average) to $3.82 billion. Year over year chip sales in the Americas were down (3.8)%, while total worldwide sales increased by 2.3%. While unit demand is strong, the average selling price in key product segments has declined.

The U.S. Consumer Price Index (CPI) (3-month moving average) increased by 0.2% in December. The year over year increase was 4.0%. All sub-indices of the CPI increased in December, with the index for energy accounting for almost one-third of the overall increase.

ARIZONA

December total statewide non-farm employment increased, year over year, by 1.3%. By comparison, the November year-over-year average growth rate in the prior 10 years was 3.3%. Arizona's unemployment rate increased from 4.1% in November to 4.7% in December.

While 9 of 11 major industries gained jobs, job losses occurred in the construction and government sectors. Construction employment decreased by (9.7)% compared to December 2006. The average yearover-year growth rate for December in the past 10 years was 6.4%. Of all major construction sectors, specialty trades experienced the greatest losses.

Statewide, the number of singlefamily residential building permits (3-month moving average) declined (41.7)% on a year-overyear basis, to 1,765. The comparable number of multi-family building permits authorized increased, however, to 1,190 between September and November, resulting in a year-overyear increase of 138.1%. As in prior years, permitting activity in the multi-family segment continues to have significant volatility.

According to statistics released by the Real Estate Center at Arizona State University, the number of existing single-family homes sold in December totaled 3,290, or (28.8)% less than December 2006 sales. The single-family median resale home price also decrease in December to $232,000, (7.3)% below the median price during the same time a year ago. Also decreasing, but at a lower rate, was the townhousecondominium median price which fell (4.6)% below December 2006 levels, to $167,000.

An alternative method to gauge housing prices is the S&P/Case-Shiller Home Price Index, which tracks repeat sales of the same home. The ASU data, on the other hand, could be influenced by changes in the average square feet of sold homes. In October, the index for Phoenix stood at 200.72, or (10.6)% below October 2006 levels. Besides Phoenix, only 5 other areas posted double digit, year-over-year declines. These areas included Miami (12.6)%, Tampa (11.8)%, Detroit (11.2)%, San Diego (11.1)%, and Las Vegas (10.7)%.

The Arizona Business Conditions Index (BCI) dropped (12.1)% in December to 47.3. A reading of over 50 corresponds to local economic growth, while a reading below 50 suggests a slowdown in the overall level of economic activity in the near term. The reported decline in the index is attributable primarily to the production component, followed by the purchases component and the price index.

An alternative measure of statewide business sentiment is the University of Arizona's Business Leaders Confidence Index (BLCI). In the 1st quarter of 2008, the BLCI fell to 40.4, signifying that conditions continue to deteriorate. At 40.4, the index is (22.2)% below the index a year ago, and (4.9)% below the prior quarter. All 6 components contributed to the lower reading relative to the prior quarter, with the national economy, capital expenditures and hiring categories registering the biggest percentage decreases. Like recent surveys, the sales expectations component continued to post the highest results while the national economy remains the lowest.

The Census Bureau reported that Arizona's population grew to 6,338,755 in 2007, an increase of 173,066 from 2006. Only 5 other states – Texas, California, Georgia, Florida, and North Carolina – added more people during the year. Further, Arizona's estimated year-over-year growth rate of 2.8% was the second fastest growth rate in the nation. Nevada, at 2.9%, had the highest growth rate on a percentage basis. .

In January, the AHCCCS caseload slightly increased to 1,086,473 members. At the current level, the number of AHCCCS members has increased by 56,771 members or 5.5% above January 2007 enrollment.

The number of TANF recipients decreased (1.3)% in November to 83,393 recipients and is (1.0)% below the November 2006 count. The state budget projects 84,700 recipients in FY 2008. Between October and December, the Department of Corrections' inmate population increased by an average of 37 inmates per month. At this level, the department's inmate population growth is significantly less than the budgeted increase of 160 inmates per month. The total population grew by 1,884 inmates from a year ago to a 3 month average population of 37,667 inmates.
